KORET OF CALIFORNIA PUTS ACCENT ON GLAMOUR IN RESORT-HOLIDAY COLLECTION

SAN FRANCISCO Koret of California makes holidays happen in the California Season Spanners collection. Glamorous holiday fabrics in elegant young styles combine with pastel woolens to banish winter doldrums.

An aura of opulence in fabrics and a penchant for white permeate holiday fashions. Jewel toned velvet of 62% cotton, 38% rayon, kiss-bonded lamé, or sparkling bonded rayon-Lurex knit; and a pampered group of Racing Silks take their holidays in a world peopled only by the beautiful, with hints of far Eastern mystery and echos of Jean Harlow.

1965's slinky siren can choose from a floor length skirt of Princess Velvet dramatically side slashed to reveal a shapely leg or make an entrance in slim hostess pants topped by a glittering shell.

Further proof that the Enchantress is now the rage is seen in coordinates and dresses of Glamour Knit, a bonded lamé intimately blended of 87% acetate and 13% Lurex. Hallmark of the group, which consists of nine styles, is the Peek-a-boo Harlow dress with seductive keyhole cutouts at the neckline. Shimmering moon-spashed colors include Night White, Sky Blue,
